"There is a vitality, a life force, an energy, a quickening, that is translated through you into action, and because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium and will be lost."

- Martha Graham

Medida Humana (human measure)

"Human Measure " is about building things and environments to fit an our human scale. My interpretation of human measure is an expression of a dichotomy, a positive-negative relationship of specific situations. Contrasts between spring and autumn, war and peace, rage and happiness. While caught on a tide of feelings and events, we advance and retrieve, we push and pull, we move or are moved to adapt to all situations, creating a physical and psychological environment to fit our human measure.

The Godfather of Soul

James Brown has more honorifics attached to his name than any other performer in music history. He has variously been tagged, "Soul Brother Number One," "The Godfather of Soul," "the Hardest Working Man in Show Business," "Mr. Dynamite" and even "the Original Disco Man." This much is certain: what became known as soul music in the Sixties, funk music in the Seventies and rap music in the Eighties is directly attributable to James Brown. His transformation of gospel fervor into the taut, explosive intensity of rhythm & blues, combined with precision choreography and dynamic showmanship, served to define the directions black music would take from the release of his first R&B hit ("Please Please Please") in 1956 to the present day.
